

How Things Function, Get Done in Kingwood

Many Kingwood residents may not understand how governmental and quasi-governmental organizations operate in Kingwood. This is particularly true of residents who have moved from other areas of the country. Because Houston does not have zoning, we depend on deed restrictions, enforced by our community associations to restrict how property owners use their property. Another organization, Kingwood Service Association provides services to the entire Kingwood community. The following is an attempt to clarify how things function and get done in Kingwood,

Back in the early 1970s, Friendswood Development Company, a subsidiary of Exxon, began development of the Kingwood community in unincorporated Harris County. With no zoning to protect property owners from undesirable development on nearby properties, deed restrictions enforced by community associations was the means established to protect development.

Community Associations

Kingwood is a community of “villages.” Each village has a community association, the purpose of which is to provide community, civic, and social welfare and to promote and/or to provide municipal services, educational and recreational services within their particular village. Property owners are members of their respective community association. These residents elect a board of directors, who are volunteers serving with no compensation.

Basically, each community association board of directors is charged with enforcing the deed restrictions and architectural standards on the properties within the village and maintaining village-owned property. Most community association boards of directors meet monthly. These meetings are open to the public. If you, a resident, have questions about what is happening in your community, attend the board meeting and get your questions answered. If you don't like the way things are being done, volunteer to either fill an open board position or volunteer to assist the board.

Most of the community associations in Kingwood own swimming pools and community rooms. They also maintain landscaped entries. They employ a management firm to handle the administrative duties of the association. Your annual assessments are used to pay for maintenance, repair and replacement of these facilities as well as the assessment charged to each member community association by the Kingwood Service Association (KSA).

Trails Associations

A 75+ mile greenbelt system winds throughout Kingwood. These trails preserve the natural vegetation in the area and provide safe access to schools, parks, and shopping without having to cross major roads. Residents can walk, ride bikes or roller blade along these trails and cross heavily travelled arterial streets through tunnels built along the major streets. Depending upon the particular location in Kingwood, these trails are maintained by a community association or a separate trails association.

Kingwood Service Association

The Kingwood Service Association was formed “to provide for community, civic and social welfare in the Kingwood Area of Harris and Montgomery Counties, Texas and to promote the health, safety and welfare of the Kingwood Area residents and property owners. Kingwood community associations contract with KSA to provide group property, liability, and other insurance, maintenance to common areas, facilities and services of overall benefit to the Kingwood residents. KSA owns parks and recreation areas and provides for maintenance of facilities that are not the responsibility of the individual village community associations and trails associations. Entrances to Kingwood are also the responsibility of KSA. Each member community and commercial association selects a member of its board to serve on the KSA Board of Directors. The KSA Board meets at 7:00 pm on the third Thursday of January, April, July, and October in the South Woodland Hills Community Room, 2030 Shadow Rock Drive. The board also meets in September to receive the proposed budget for the following calendar year. The Board votes acceptance of the budget at its October meeting. KSA meetings are open to the public, and public attendance is encouraged. KSA has two permanent committees comprised of representatives of KSA member associations who volunteer their services.

It helps inform Kingwood residents of public safety information and concerns. ### Goals

The amount of park and recreation land available in Kingwood is extremely limited. Since the community is essentially fully developed, optimum use of the available parks is a primary concern of the KSA Parks Committee. To guide the use and development of our parks, the KSA Parks Committee program has been predicated on the following goals and objectives:

- ✓ Provide parks and common open spaces adequate in size and distribution to serve all Kingwood residents;
- ✓ Provide recreational facilities and activities to meet the leisure interests and health needs of Kingwood residents of all ages;
- ✓ Use the KSA park system to preserve and protect environmentally significant areas for public enjoyment and education; and
- ✓ Operate the parks in a cost-effective manner.

KSA parks include Creekwood Nature Area (3300 Maple Park Drive), Deer Ridge Park (1411 Woodland Hills Drive), East End Park (6400 Kingwood Drive), North Park Recreation Area (4202 Woodland Hills Drive), and River Grove Park (800 Woodland Hills Drive).

These parks are private parks for use by Kingwood residents and their guests. Guests must be accompanied by a Kingwood resident.

KSA owns a total of 356.6 acres of land distributed among its five recreation properties. East End park is the largest park, totaling 158.5 acres. The North Park Recreation Area is the smallest park, at 18.8 acres.

The Kingwood entries at Kingwood Drive and US 59 and North Park Drive and US 59 are also managed by the KSA Parks Committee.

A boardwalk extending over the San Jacinto River provides wide views of the river and fishing opportunities.

Kingwood Area Super Neighborhood Council

And finally, the Kingwood Area Super Neighborhood Council, representing Kingwood and Forest Cove, is one of 88 super neighborhoods in the City of Houston created to encourage residents to identify, plan, and set priorities to address the needs and concerns of their community. The council is comprised of residents and stakeholders who volunteer their time and energy for the benefit of the community at no cost to the community. The super neighborhood initiative is intended to provide avenues for more effective community input into city government policy making, budgeting, planning, and service delivery systems. The Kingwood Area Super Neighborhood Council meets on the third Monday of each month in the Kingwood Community Center at 4102 Rustic Woods Drive. These meetings are open to the public.

Dylan Duncan Skate Park

The Dylan Duncan Skate park, originally named the Kingwood Skate Park, was the very first public skate park built by the City of Houston. It is located near the center of Kingwood at 3950 Rustic Woods. It was dedicated on May 21, 2004. It was renamed the Dylan Duncan Skate Park in December of 2006. Other resident concerns that are handled by the City of Houston include illegal dumping and bandit signs. Bandit signs are the inexpensive signs placed randomly on the street right-of-way. They are illegal, and any citizen may remove them. To report bandit signs, potholes, or improperly operating traffic lights, call 311.
